

A future for all of us, built by all of us.

Leading corporations of every size. Thriving small businesses. A highly-skilled workforce. World-class communities. Economic development is the catalyst that turns our shared vision of Indiana's future into a reality. But there is intense competition between the states and around the world to attract businesses and investors. The support of the private sector through the IED Foundation (IEDF) is critical to realize our success.

As an independently-funded, 501(c)3 non-profit organization, the IED Foundation brings contributors of any size together to support the IEDC as they demonstrate Indiana's potential to innovators, business leaders and policymakers around the world.

With help from the IED Foundation, Indiana experienced dramatic growth in capital expenditures.

Your donations in action.

When you give to IEDF, you're helping bring international businesses and new opportunities to Indiana. Your donation means new jobs, a global economy and a future-focused economy that's ready to address the needs of all Hoosiers today, tomorrow and for decades to come.

Simply put, here's how your gift is put into action:

- IEDF funds international trips to strategic locations around the world.
- IEDF funds support meetings between Indiana and current and potential international partners.
- Those meetings lead to international businesses opening or expanding operations in Indiana.
- And those operations mean new high-wage, high-potential and high-growth opportunities for Hoosiers across the state.

Find your role.

As an IED Foundation member, you'll be the first to know about IEDC investment initiatives and have access to a vetted network of like-minded individuals who share your passion for a thriving Hoosier economy.
